Changing web site programming code by verifying requestor authorization and updating log file

Abstract (Basic):

... Method consists in receiving the change request by e - mail as a web based form, verifying that the requestor is authorized by comparing the request...

... changing a computer program language, (2) a method of changing the programming code of a web page, (3) a digital device for changing program code on request...

...Method is for making web site code changes with plain text requests .

...The figure shows a flow diagram of the method of changing the web site programming code

System for processing images of Internet web pages , uses a programmed digital computer including a pre-processor to convert a hypertext document into a format which facilitates page modification by an included annotator program

Abstract (Basic):

... A program includes a pre-processor that converts a WWW page downloaded from the Internet (26) and displayed on monitor (16). An annotator enables the user to modify the document, e.g. drawing lines on a page, highlighting text and adding digital sticker images, also selected sections of pages can be copied and pasted into a scrapbook.
... Using the annotator on the converted input file allows the user to modify web pages and then transmit them by electronic mail without losing sections of the page, e.g. graphic images...
